Renaissance Imaging Medical Associates Goes Live with the Clario Worklist

SEATTLE – Clario’s Worklist is now live at Renaissance Imaging Medical Associates (RIMA), bringing the total number of Radiologists using the Clario Worklist to over 1,000. It is Clario’s first installation in California, and the company’s 26th live customer since beginning in 2009.

RIMA as already seen improved turnaround times, and expect their practice to improve even further as they continue to implement the full breadth of the technology available with Clario, and work to improve their processes.

"RIMA has a long history of investing in technology, including the Carestream Super PACS we use to read all our exams. The Clario Worklist has already allowed us to take the service that we provide to very much the next level through its intelligent design and integrated practice management functions" said Dr. Andrew Deutsch, RIMA President and CEO.

Clario is excited to enter the California market by partnering with one of the leading private practices in the US. RIMA is the 37th largest private practice in the US, and growing rapidly. Installing a worklist system in a radiology practice that is so large can have its challenges, but the Clario team used existing tools as well as newly developed software to integrate into the existing hospital workflow.

“Designing new workflow and deploying enterprise software is always challenging, but thanks to the leadership and staff at RIMA, we were able to improve their workflow while keeping their legacy PACS in place,” said Clario’s CEO, Chris Wood.
