Raleigh Radiology Goes Live with the Clario Smart Worklist

Raleigh Radiology is increasing productivity and strengthening analytics

SEATTLE, WA, September 19, 2018 – Raleigh Radiology, a leading radiology practice in North Carolina and partner with WakeMed, has gone live with the Clario Smart Worklist to help drive workflow for their six locations. The implementation of the worklist was to further increase productivity and analytics allowing for overall better patient care.

The go-live took place over a four-day period where 45 radiologists learned and successfully used the Clario Smart Worklist. By the end of the go-live, radiologists were benefiting from the communications tools, ease of simultaneously launching Fuji 4 and Fuji 5 PACS and increased efficiency in Clario's auto-next feature and analytics tool.

Clario's comprehensive analytics tool will help give insight to Raleigh Radiology's business management and operational teams to make decisions that will not only help the practice increase exams read but also save on costs overtime. Clario's Autonext feature, which eliminates the need to look at the worklist altogether, allows Raleigh's radiologists to automatically open and launch multiple viewers for a smoother workflow process and time savings.

"We are proud to be a part of Raleigh Radiology's thriving practice and intend to take it to new heights," says Chris Wood, Clario's CEO. "Clario and Raleigh Radiology took the time and energy into the procedure management and worklist building to make sure the right steps were taken to ensure a great go-live and I am happy to say we achieved that goal."

Clario is committed on delivering a great workflow from the very beginning. They do so by taking new customers through their Clario Collab where the team gets an extensive three-day in-depth training with their dedicated Customer Success and Implementation managers.
